Indoor Animal-Themed Fun!

As it gets colder outside, you might be spending a lot more time indoors. Here are some fun inside activities:

- Bake dog or cat treats (with adult help)
- Make a comic about your pets! Use lots of colors and have fun with it!
- Read out loud to your pets!

Fun Fact:

Animals like bears and chipmunks that hibernate in the winter use this time to gather lots of food to fatten up!

Autumn Safety for You and Your Pet

Fall is hunting season. It is very important for you and your pet to wear brightly colored clothes like orange or green when walking in the woods so that hunters see you. A colorful bandana or vest is a perfect accessory for your dog!

As wildlife get ready for winter, they are much more active - and more likely to run into you or your pet. If you see a wild animal, do not go up to it. Walk away slowly and carefully and tell an adult. Dogs can also hurt wildlife or get hurt by wildlife. Keep pets inside or on a leash when wild animals might be around.

Fall is also when we eat a lot of foods that aren't good for our pets, like Halloween candy or Thanksgiving dinner. Be extra careful and don't leave food out around your furry friend.

CRAFT CORNER

Try creating fall animals by adding felt shapes to pinecones. Use felt for the paws, eyes, ears, and tail, and the pinecone as the body. Pinecone critters make great fall decorations! Be creative and have fun!
